Diary of Tedious Days Under the Declaration of a State of Emergency 4

Yesterday, I visited a coffee beans trade firm and was invited to president room. Secretary asked me which blend of coffee would I like and I said 'Kilimanjaro please'. She brought two cups of coffee to our table and then;

President: This is mine and that's Kiminanjaro.

Secretary: How many sugars would you like?

President: I AM TWO.

Secretary: Would you use cinnamon powder?

President: I don't need sinnamon.

After the meeting, the secretary breathed to my ear 'Do you have any plan for dinner tonight? I answered so happily 'I have no plan at all!'. She said 'Then aren't you so hungry through night? I didn't answer and left there, hearing whisper of secretaries.

On the way home, I found a remarkable kind of strawberry called 'One branched strawberry' and I bought it at once because it was very rare and I thought I would never meet it again.

It was just a once-in-a-life time chance. And I also bought fried chicken for my supper.

Fried chicken is very good for bored marriage couples. It is called 'Kentaiki fried chicken.
